24TH MIFF

The 2022 Melbourne Independent Filmmakers Festival (MIFF) will celebrate its 24th year on October 13-15 at the Premiere Theaters Oaks 10. Each year, the MIFF showcases fantastic independent films from around the country and the world but, as part of their mission, proudly showcase Florida-produced films. But what sets the MIFF apart is that they raise funds for charity. Over the years, they have raised over $60,000 dollars to benefit the No Limits Academy. MIFF program chairman, Dr. Terrence Cronin, Jr. believes that the MIFF's success is based upon the good will they bring to the film community.

This year, they are excited to announce the return of Patrick Gallo who was one of the earliest guest celebrities of the MIFF in 2003. Mr. Gallo's career has certainly been exceptional with his recent roles alongside Robert DeNiro, Al Pacino, and Joe Pesci in Martin Scorsese's "The Irishman" and his breakout performance as Mario Puzo in Paramount's "The Offer." He was also a star of the locally-shot cult comedy classic "I'll Believe You!" Mr. Gallo is expected to share his journey, wit, and experience with the festival patrons when he receives an achievement award at the MIFF. See the MIFF Program in the center of this magazine.

KILLER QUEEN

Singer Patrick Myers is an absolute dead ringer for the legendary Freddie Mercury (both visually and vocally), resulting in a live concert experience that is second only to catching an '80s era Queen performance.

Formed back in June of 1993, Killer Queen quickly became incredibly popular in their native England - resulting in a residency at London's Strand Theatre, winning "Worldwide Best Tribute Band" at an awards ceremony in Leicester Square, and performing stadium shows - including being selected to represent Queen in a re-staged tribute Live Aid concert held by Sir Bob Geldof.

And the accolades continue to pour in, including Duncan Kennedy of BBC 1 declaring "No detail is overlooked. Killer Queen are kings of the musical impersonators, the highest of tributes."

"It's been an amazing journey," says Myers. "That first show back in June 1993 changed my life. We thought our band would last maybe a summer at the most but it's a very addictive thing performing these songs! The concerts grew and grew and we've ended up playing and selling out the same arenas that Queen played at their peak. It's been quite a surreal ride. Becoming regular performers - Red Rocks Arena in America is another highlight. The Beatles, U2, Springsteen, Dylan all played on that stage. It's really got its own kind of magic going on there."

Derek Gores is in the business of bringing us things that we didn't know we needed. In addition to his world-renowned reputation in the art world, he is set to once again open up an interactive experience in his adopted home of Brevard County. Welcome to Screamland.

Gores is fresh off of the success of a family friendly, local art drenched mini golf run called Dreamland. For this, a local art drenched take on a haunted museum, he enlists collaborator creator/filmmaker O.P. Garza. Together, they along with talent artists and actors from the area will make you marvel and gasp at the same time.

First, some back story. Dreamland had wrapped, and the hotel set to take the Foosaner Art Museum's place was not breaking ground into 2023. Gores asked wife Cassandra what she thought of a Halloween themed project and what it should be called. "Screamland" was the aha text back that set the wheels in motion.

"I had known O.P. for a while and had talked about working together," recalls Gores during a break in the construction phase of the exhibit last month. "We started talking in August about what Screamland should look like." Garza, a veteran of Escape Room Designs and movie and music video director ("Never Ender"), was all in and even came up with the story to tell...

Screamland introduces us to a woman simply known as 'The Curator'. Garza describes her as someone who 'loves but loathes art'. A combination of 80's pop icon, fashion martyr, and horror fiend, she latches onto an artist under the guise of being their muse. "She consumes artists until they are husks," Garza explains. "Then she lures them to an untimely demise. She drives them to murder, suicide, strange death, she's suckling all their creative energy until they no longer please her. She has a catch phrase; 'art above all'".

The marriage between Garza's vision and Gores' ingenuity goes beyond the horror genre. "One of the great things when we do these projects are the unexpected strengths," says Gores. "For Robot Love is was the inclusion of dance.

For Screamland we incorporate video." Make no mistake, this 'horror exhibit' comes complete with live actors to compliment the scary video. The concept's secret weapon is the local artists and their contributions to the event.

Back are Dreamland alum Shawn Creel, Steve Monroe and Sarah Peck, among others. For Brevard artist Oliv Roe, inspiration from female Latin artist Remedios Varo fit the bill. "My piece is based on a lesser-known piece entitled 'starmaker'," Roe explains. "It portrays a ghostly woman in a surreal setting". The painting shows the stars from the skies being stolen and ground into the moon. The art history component is a theme throughout the night. "The fact that this takes place in an old art museum is intentional," adds Gores. "The concept of The Curator and the art they steal for her own pleasure leaves the artists in their own tortured Purgatory."

With all of the concept and storylines that is Screamland, it came time to fill out the cast to make this a reality. Casting calls were held as crew (overseen by Garza and Gores) continued with set construction. "Almost everyone except maybe one artist lives here locally," adds Gores.

With all of the attention to detail, both visually and creatively, it is still meant to be a thrill-seeking destination for local patrons. "The big events like Halloween Horror Nights have million-dollar budgets that wouldn't have the same integrity as something like this," Gores continues. Garza's detailed story, where "once a year The Curator opens up her gallery to art lovers' and asks 'can you escape the museum before you become part of this dark exhibit?'

Screamland is located at the former Foosaner Art Museum in the Eau Gallie Art District. It opens September and runs Friday, Saturday (7-11pm) and Sunday (5-10pm) nights through October, ending Saturday November 5th. On Halloween Monday the show is open from 5pm til 11 pm. Go to www.DerekGores.com for more information and to purchase tickets.

SPACE COAST MUSIC FESTIVAL

Drifting Roots will perform at the SCMF.

Saturday, Oct 8, All Day
Melbourne Biergarten

Downtown Oktoberfest

The streets of downtown Melbourne may never be the same as Melbourne Biergarten presents Oktoberfest, Saturday October 8th. The festivities begin at 11 am outside of the restaurant in the heart of downtown Melbourne. The all day entertainment will be headlined by Grammy award winning Trae Pierce & the T-Stones as well as Brevard's own rock legend DL Serios.

Pierce, a bassist who has toured with James Brown and Robert Plant among others, has put together the T-Stones, a funky trio that has shared the stage with George Clinton and other national acts. The band plays original music along with funk up versions of well known classics.

DL Serios is the former lead singer of the infamous band Dead Serios. In September, he released his first ever solo album, 'Pecker' on Ghoul-tone Records. He will be performing his hit single "Feeling Freakie" as well as Dead Serios classics including 'No More Pipe for Potato Head'. The event is free and open to all ages.

The Space Coast Music Festival is scheduled to take place Saturday, November 5th from Noon to 9 pm in the Eau Gallie Arts District. This is the 3rd year since 2019 that the event, which showcases Brevard original music and local vendors, is produced by Harbor City Local. There is free admission, food and beer trucks, and close to 90 performers and bands of all musical styles on 7 stages located all over the district.

New this year is the Blackbox Blackout stage curated by 2021 SCMF headliner Kristen Warren. "That was one of my proudest moments and I will never forget that feeling," she remembers about the last year's event. "It was so wonderful to perform there with my band Creek. Blackbox Blackout is an organization dedicated to celebrating black creativity. We had our first month long celebration in February of 2022. This featured standup comedy, theatrical presentations, and of course musical concerts. When we were offered a stage for this year's SCMF, it seemed like a perfect fit. Expect to see black and brown talent performing at our stage all day. We will also have live painters and local black vendors."

Back again this year will be the Groove Shack Stage. Located adjacent to the main stage bandshell, this stage will feature local junior and senior high school ensembles as well as music students that have put together bands. Last year's participants The Groove Kids and singer/songwriter

Nilah Lois have 'graduated' to other stages to perform at this year's event.

Although the event is free to enter, proceeds from merchandise and alcohol sales will go towards the charity. More than $30,000 has been raised from the previous events in 2019 and 2021. In addition, musical instruments that have been donated have been refurbished and donated to local schools. This year will also see the continuation of music lesson scholarships at local businesses for students who aren't able to study in a school setting.

HCL intends to put on the best version of the festival to date. "What started as a rock centric event has grown to include funk, reggae, and hip hop," HCL president Steve Spencer said. "This year will continue to grow with jazz, gospel, country, etc." As fun as everyone has, it is equally important to recognize the fundraising aspect and what impact it has on the art's future in Brevard. All proceeds go to promote community, culture, and education. www.SpaceCoastRocks.com

October 22 & 23 at the Indian River County Fairgrounds

VERO BEACH OKTOBERFEST

The Vero Beach Oktoberfest will be the largest community party on the Treasure and Space Coast, proudly produced by Latitude-88, Inc. Held in late October which is not a traditional time frame compared to the Oktoberfest in Munich, Germany, because we live and play in Florida. Late October offers less chance of Hurricanes and hopefully will bring a slight cooler temperature to the festival. For these reasons, this party is better served Oct 22-23, 2022 at the Indian River County Fairgrounds.

It can't be Oktoberfest without a Biergarten (Beer Garden)! The focal point will be the large 15,000 Sqft Biergarten tent! Artfully decorated and providing tables and seating for 700 at any one given time! Nobody goes thirsty in the Biergarten with its dedicated 60 foot bar with 10-12 active bar tenders all day and night. Real and BIG Oktoberfest party bands will occupy the stage in the back performing all day and night! Drink yummy Hofbräu draft beer straight from Germany with different varieties including their Oktoberfest, Dunkel (Dark), Weiss and original blends! Plenty of domestic beer on tap and all your favorite cocktails to be had at the full liquor bars all around the festival. Thirsty is not an option!

Outside of the big Biergarten the event sprawls across acres and acres of festival grounds! Experience the vendor marketplace offering 165 vendors with arts & crafts, local business and more! Expect the unexpected in the vendor marketplace...

Over 20 food trucks with harty German and festival foods! From traditional bratwurst and sauerkraut to fun and uniquely delicious fusions of bratwurst that you will only taste here! The "German Pizza" with sliced beer grilled bratwurst and pickled cabbage! Other amazing German fare such as Schnitzel, potato pancakes, Kielbasa, giant salted pretzels with beer cheese dip, German deserts and so much more! You will also find many other non-German festival foods for any appetite.

Live music is everywhere around the Oktoberfest, from the fun 8 piece Oktoberfest bands in the Beer Garden to the duo and 4 piece acts at different locations outside of the Beer Garden all day and night!

Bring the kids to Oktoberfest's large kids zone with inflatables, face painting, pumpkin painting (child takes pumpkin home), fun bubble machine, arts and crafts, potato sack racing and more! It's $5 per child per day, child can come and go all day with a kids zone wrist band. The kids zone closes at 6 pm both days. Parents can drop their kids off at the baby sitter and return to the festival with their re-entry wristband for a more adult atmosphere party! It only gets hotter when the sun goes down!

See the classic car and truck show on Saturday only, presented by the Antique Automobile Club of America (AACA). Car, truck and motorcycle owners wishing to enter their ride, contact StingRayJohnny@hotmail.com. It's free to enter!

Admission tickets are $5 per person, per day and free under 13. Parking is FREE. To learn more about the Vero Beach Oktoberfest including sponsor opportunities, music lineup, event policies and more visit

What I have Learned

As many of you probably know already, the past month has been a fairly harrowing medical situation for me. It will continue for a few more months. So, far, here's what I have learned.

Those remote things they give you in the hospital are amazing pieces of technology. You can not only control the TV, but change the angle of your bed and call the nurse too! Imagine if every home had this. Push a button... "Hey, honey, can you bring me a drink?" "Why don't you get your own drink?" "Because I just found the perfect angle for the bed and I don't want to mess it up." "Oh, Jeez...". Now if they could let the dog out, you wouldn't have to move again.

Hospital food can't be real food. I realize that I was on a special diet, but nothing tasted like real food. It may look just like a piece of chicken, and it may look like a pile of string beans, and it may look like potatoes, but they're just shaped and colored like that. Everything tasted like a piece of plastic, even the coffee. I was reminded of a Barbie playset with all the table settings, and the little plastic foods, and ...wait, how do I know so much about Barbie? Never mind.

At a mere 67, I never really felt "old". I've been doing exactly the same thing my whole life. Playing, teaching, enjoying life. Now I do. So anybody out there in a similar situation, let's start a club. It's called OOF, Official Old Farts. I've had many life changing experiences throughout my life, none quite like this. So let's sit around and have a good time discussing the detriments of Metformin. Speaking of which, one of the meds I'm taking for my prostate is the same thing they use for Propecia, the hair growth product, so I might look a little fluffier next time you see me.

The old saying "I woke up just in time for my nap." Has a whole new meaning. It's true now. I stay up for 2 hours, sleep for 2. On and on all day until bedtime finally rolls around. I was never one to sit around and do nothing all the time, but I think I have perfected that art. I do, however, very much miss teaching, I miss my students, I miss playing, I miss hanging out. This, too, shall pass.

Water! I've drank more water in the past month than I have my whole life. It's like what vodka used to be back in the day. I constantly have a bottle of water next to me. And now, the main staples of my diet are blueberries and pineapple. So anybody with kidney problems, blueberries and pineapple are you best friends.

The biggest lesson I've learned is love. I've always loved our little town and love living here. I've also tried to help those in need when I was able. To me, I'm just a guy hanging out playing geetar and trying to survive and really never thought about how many lives I've had an impact on. Well, the outpouring of love and kindness I have received has left me truly in awe. Some of the letters, emails and notes on my gofundme have been truly inspirational. Everybody's generosity has left me humbled and grateful to have such support. I have a long journey to endure and knowing all the love and kindness shown to me by all of you will make everything much more endurable. Much love to you all. I am truly blessed.

Todd Kennedy Retired As WFIT's Program Director

Brevard Live has a long standing media relationship with WFIT 89.5 FM. It was a sad day when program director Todd Kennedy announced his retirement from the station last month. He writes in a Facebook post:

"I am proud of my accomplishments as Program Director, leading WFIT to new heights in audience growth and successful fundraising. To consider where we came from, it's been a remarkable journey. I helped us grow from a tiny 10 watt station located in a dark, dingy basement to a state of the art broadcast center with 5 on-air studios and a recording studio equipped for live broadcasts of local and national acts. Over the 25 years WFIT has been through different formats, new programming and vast new technology changes. But through it all, I have been committed to continue WFIT's core value as a music leader in our community. WFIT has been a place for listeners to discover new music from a wide variety of different musical styles and genres, as well as home local music. I couldn't have done it without the combined support of all our past and present staff, DJs and supporters. I've been fortunate to have been able to work with some remarkable people at WFIT. People who believe in the power of community radio and who work unselfishly to make it strong. I've worked really hard to make WFIT the station the community loves and supports. And in many ways, it's been the best job in the world. My show Sound Waves will continue for the foreseeable future, until a transition is in place. Thank you for 25 good rocking years at WFIT 89.5 FM."

Dara Weinstein is a comedian and actor based in New York City, and a graduate of the University of Chicago. Once in third grade, Dara threw a wig across the stage during a school play, which made 3-5 people chuckle. She has been hooked ever since. Dara performs regularly in New York City as a part of the sketch comedy troupe Girl Theory, and will be making her NYC solo debut at the Green Room 42 on October 25th with her one-woman-show, "Coolest Girl in School." You can find Dara on TikTok @ daraweinstein, where she refuses to choose a niche.

Patrick Gallo (The Irishman, The Offer) is a graduate of the American Musical and Dramatic Academy in New York City where he studied acting, musical theater, and dance. Mr. Gallo's career has certainly been exceptional, with his recent roles alongside Robert DeNiro, Al Pacino, and Joe Pesci in Martin Scorsese's "The Irishman" and his breakout performance as Mario Puzo in Paramount's series "The Offer". He is a past celebrity guest of the MIFF and we are honored to host his return.

BIKE FEST

Both Harley Davidson dealerships, the one in Palm Bay and Miracle City in Titusville, will have a great festival that they cannot call Biketoberfest because the name is branded, but it's still something similar. From October 13th through the 16th both places will have stages and non-stop live bands with free beer, bikini bike wash, contests and prizes, just anything that the biker community enjoys. There is no admission fee.

October 8, King Center

Acoustic Alchemy

For over three decades Acoustic Alchemy has been at the forefront of contemporary jazz, even if the band's signature eclectic mix of styles has meant they have never comfortably fit snugly into any one genre; "We've had a lot of labels over the years, at the start there were all these names flying around like New Adult Contemporary, New Age music, and then it became Smooth Jazz, but we've never really thought about ourselves as being in any one particular genre. "We just make music we like." Says Greg Carmichael.

Melbourne Biergarten In Downtown Melbourne

Oktoberfest All Month

By Heike Clarke

The month of October is famous for 2 events - Oktoberfest and Halloween. Both ancient celebrations have turned into traditional fun events with Brats, Beer, and Booze for the adults, and Candy and Pretzel for the kids. It's a family event, and the Melbourne Biergarten wants to invite patrons to a free Oktoberfest on the 8th, held as a street party from Municipal Lane to Campbell Park. There will be a stage with ongoing live entertainment along with vendors and lots of German specialties.

It took a while, but Downtown Melbourne can finally add a German restaurant to its culinary attractions. After a little shake-up about who is running a German restaurant, Chip Dickens and his son Chad came out as the owners. Their goal is to serve good German food and world famous beers, currently the fresh Oktoberfest brews from popular brands like Warsteiner, Hofbrau, Bitburger, Hacker-Pschorr among many more.

So how does this father and son team with no experience in the hospitality industry get the inspiration to open up a German restaurant with a Biergarten that offers live entertainment every day of the week? Chip's background has a little experience with German culture and food when the

Lieutenant colonel was stationed with the military in Berlin from 1988 to 91. After his rounds in Afghanistan and Saudi Arabia, he retired from the Pentagon in DC and settled 2008 in Maryland still working as a government contractor as information consultant. Five years ago he and his wife located to Brevard County. "I liked it here. Brevard was friendly and laid back, still close enough to Orlando." After a while Chip felt that he wanted to get more involved with the community, so he started looking for a business. "I looked at different options," he tells us, "but when I saw the Biergarten concept, it appealed to me."

Add Chad who worked for years as government contractor in Information Technology. His contract ran out January 2021, most likely a pandemic casualty. Chad who lived in Virginia decided to join his father in Florida. He can't remember his family's time in Germany - "I was too young then" - but he knows one thing for sure: "I have always been passionate about beer," he laughs, "if that qualifies me?"

Together they opened the Melbourne Biergarten in October 2021, a time when the hospitality industry was still struggling to come back from the pandemic and hire employees. "We started with 1.5 cooks, now we have 3," says Chad. The menu is everything German from potato pancakes, to Sauerbraten, Wiener Schnitzel, Schweinshaxe, and more. What's Brevard's favorite? "We sell a lot of Jägerschnitzels," says Chad.

All month long the Melbourne Biergarten will offer Oktoberfest specials. In the evenings the passage part of the Biergarten features entertainment on a stage. And don't forget the Oktoberfest street party on October 8th from 11am to Midnight with headliners DL Serios, Trae Pierce & The T-Stones, along with Murphy's Law, Kome Back Kids, Billy Chapman, Shoot To Thrill and My Rememdy. Prost!

Billy Chapman

By Steve LeClair

Brevard county's music scene is probably pretty typical of its small market counterparts. We have a melting pot of influences with numerous musicians relocating here after successful careers in the field (or just other careers) and also, we have a large quantity of talent that performs throughout Florida stopping in for shows or working periodically from season to season. Our homegrown stars are many also and one of them can be considered a local legend.

It's fair to say anyone who's in our music scene knows or has followed musicians in the area has heard of Billy Chapman. He's been entertaining audiences in Central Florida for over 30 years and this graduate of Mel-Hi basically is a native having resided here since he was ten. His original music has been described several different ways from reggae beach rock to hippy jam band to Americana with some bluegrass and country thrown in but you can always count on a passionate performance from him whether in a solo setting or with his band.

You can expect to hear covers of songs from the 60s through the 80s and his originals. Examples would be acoustic Zeppelin, Bill Withers, Bob Seger, Doors, and ZZ Top but don't expect these to be note for note as he will put his own stamp on these as he also does on traditional roots and blues songs. His voice can best be described as whiskey soaked, gruff, raw, organic but it's just the voice that's perfect for the music he performs. When asked about performing songs, he advised the most important piece to him is being committed to the song. He always wants to feel it and show that to the audience so they can experience it also. That connection creates enjoyment and brings out more of the song than just notes and rhythms.

Fun facts: he played trumpet in Junior High and started guitar around 14. Billy was born in Germany while his father was stationed there, and though they had been in Florida prior to 1976, they permanently moved here then. After spending some time in the service, he became a full-time musician. Performing as the Billy Chapman Band and the band "A Million Tiny Fingers" they gained notoriety with recordings and playing in festivals and concert halls. He's had the pleasure of opening for acts like Robin Trower, Peter Frampton, War, Buddy Guy and many more at places like Max's, the Hard Rock and House of Blues. Billy stated though, "a highlight to playing is performing to all his friends he grew up with in Melbourne and also being on stage with friends." On top of that, one of his biggest thrills was hearing one of his songs played on the Orlando rock station WJRR. Like so many artists, it's a testament to the hard work and effort put in as a musician and composer when their music gets noticed and played on the radio.

Discussing performing more, he talked about the best part of performing. He laughed a little and joked “just getting to do it is great! It’s sort of a soul cleanse and that you’re sharing a little, well, big part of yourself with your audience so that’s special. You feel a certain energy and power. That overall connection with the people puts a smile on your face and makes every night enjoyable.”

He’s really proud of his writing also. His subject matter covers a lot of bases, but you will find a good portion of it as observational, and it leans toward a positive vibration. One of his originals, “Land of Smiles,” is special to him because of the messages it sends out. His newest song, “Blue Marble,” talks about the current struggles happening in the world today pointing out that there are “no others and that we are all brothers.”

Billy promotes and gives back to the community providing support and playing at many benefits. His community action goes back a long way and really is an extension to his upbringing as his dad provided that example showing him that helping others was worth the trouble. His dad was part of the local Lion’s Club which used funds earned through selling Christmas trees to help purchase glasses, eye exams and more for those in need. Billy has some favorites; the Surfriider Foundation, The Women’s Center, American Cancer Society, and research for MS but you will notice his participation in many other including raising money for a friend in need.

Don’t miss out on great night of music, go out and catch Billy Chapman! You can locate him on Facebook under Billy Chapman.

Alligators!

By Matthew Bretz

Say what you want about the ole’ sunshine state, but Florida is home to a lot of interesting things and what you find very much depends on where you are exploring. Down south we have Miami with all the million-dollar yachts and tapas bars anyone could handle. Go even further south and you are in the world-famous keys—home to key lime pie, six toed cats, haunted dolls and the original cheeseburger in paradise. On the west coast there is a town taken over by pirates one week a year - right next to another town that was settled by circus performers. Right in the middle of the state sits mighty Orlando known for theme parks and boy bands. Here on the Space Coast, we can boast NASA, SpaceX and a statue of Kelly Slater right in our own backyard. Jacksonville has Lynyrd Skynyrd, Gainesville has Tom Petty, and Clearwater has Scientology. This is a weird and whacky place, and I’m pretty sure the rest of the country thinks we are all crazy. I mean “Florida Man” is a thing for a reason. And let’s not forget all the ways to die...or at least suffer terribly down here. As if the heat and humidity weren’t enough, we also have fire ants, mosquitos, spiders, scorpions, poisonous snakes...all three of the most dangerous sharks in the world...hurricanes, tornados, more lightning strikes than the rest of the globe and that leather suitcase full of teeth that is so very iconic to Florida—the alligator. Alligators are actually what I want to talk about here. I just got a little carried away with my “all things Florida” intro. Is it just me or does it seem like a whole lot of people are being attacked and/or killed by alligators lately? Like way more than there used to be right? The answer is “yes.” Attacks have been increasing steadily as humans have been multiplying and moving into alligator territories, and there seems to be a recent jump in numbers.

As Floridians, especially those of us that grew up here, we are fairly used to our scaley neighbors, and we know the correct behavior to adapt in their environment. Basically, we know how to live along side them and not get eaten, so it isn’t a huge surprise that a lot of alligator attacks happen to tourists, out of state retirees and new residents. Inside Science (2022) reports that unprovoked attacks in Florida averaged around three a year until the last decade - rising closer to ten. Honestly, I’m surprised there aren’t a lot more. Fish and Wildlife estimates over a million alligators in Florida right now. Lake Okeechobee has over 30,000 on its own. They are literally everywhere. Golf courses, parking lots retention ponds, drainage canals..., even swimming pools from time to time. FWC data shows that there were roughly 6,700 “nuisance” gators relocated or destroyed in 2017. In the last 4 years that number has increased by nearly a thousand. And the biggest problem areas might not be where you would expect either. Tampa, Sarasota, Orlando, Fort Myers and Jacksonville, all big cities, claim the five top slots.

Some experts are theorizing that Covid has something to do with the increase in attacks because of an increase in population during the pandemic when everyone was sheltered at home and nature was taking a well-earned vacation from humanity. However, talking with alligator hunters this year I was told that due to our lax Covid restrictions there has been a sharp increase in out-of-state hunters and a lot of the big game has been depleted, so I'm not sure about this theory. Another possible explanation being talked about is global warming. Believe it or not, it is getting hotter and staying hotter longer in the season. The increase and stamina of heat and humidity is causing breeding seasons for reptiles and lizards to extend much longer than they used to; this of course equals more reptiles and lizards coming off the production line.

In truth, even though I'm sure these reasons are a part of this, the biggest reason there has been an increase in attacks is because people are feeding them. Who doesn't know you're not supposed to feed wild animals by now?! So, basically because of humans being everywhere and wildlife having nowhere to go, we are often in close proximity to alligators and instead of leaving them alone, people are feeding them. Alligators then get used to people feeding them and become less scared of humans and more aggressive for food. You see where this is going. In summary - stop doing that!

It's hard to believe, but at one time the American Alligator was actually on the endangered species list. It's true; they were hunted to the point of near extinction, so the government began to protect them under penalty of law. Well, during the time they were protected, they bred and populated at breakneck speeds until all of the sudden we were overrun with modern day dinosaurs. And it has continued to be that way ever since.

I don't want to scare anyone here, the true chances of being bitten are pretty low, 1 in 3.2 million, but these animals can be dangerous so we should all definitely practice caution near any natural body of water. They aren't evil or mean. They are just wild animals trying to live in the patches we leave for them. I like to assume that all murky water has an alligator in it ready to eat me or my pet. It makes it difficult to take a bath when the power is out, but better safe than sorry.

"Weird Al" Yankovic

Almost four years after his first foray into unfamiliar concert territory with his highly-acclaimed Ridiculously Self-Indulgent, Ill-Advised Vanity Tour, "Weird Al" Yankovic is pressing his luck again, this time with The Unfortunate Return of the Ridiculously Self-Indulgent, Ill-Advised Vanity Tour. The tour marks Weird Al's long-anticipated return to the concert stage after his hugely successful Strings Attached Tour in 2019.

Drawing from his catalogue of 14 studio albums, Weird Al promises to deliver a different set list every night. As before, rather than focusing on the hits from his career, the show will feature Yankovic's non-parody material – the somewhat more obscure pastiches and original songs that have largely escaped the pop culture radar but are adored by his long-time fans.

"Weird Al" Yankovic is the biggest-selling comedy recording artist of all time. A five-time Grammy winner, his 2014 release Mandatory Fun was the first comedy album in history to debut at #1 on Billboard's Top 200. He is one of only five artists to have had Top 40 singles in each of the last four decades, the other four being Michael Jackson, Madonna, U2, and Kenny G. On August 27, 2018 the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce awarded Weird Al with a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

Legendary comedian Emo Philips is opening up for Weird Al and has performed over 7,000 shows across the globe. www.kingcenter.com

Eerie Moments In The Swamp

By Charles Knight

If you have ever spent a significant amount of time alone in a forest or a swamp, you may have experienced that eerie feeling of not being alone even though there isn't another person or animal around for miles. Now, I never really believed in ghosts until a dear friend and band member passed away a few decades back, but I have certainly felt what could only be described as a phantom presence. Over the years in the Everglades I have been in situations where, while alone in the swamps at night, there was that odd feeling of being in the presence of someone or something other worldly. I know, I know, this sounds like a lot of bull malarkey but I have literally spent thousands of hours wandering through the swamps in search of wild game or just communing with nature (which I often did) without ever being spooked.

When that feeling comes over you, it's like a tidal wave of caution with a pinch of adrenaline thrown in for good measure. I suspect the adrenaline is survival tactic brought on by one's mind in order to hopefully assist in keeping safe in the face of potential danger.

Many is the time I've stopped in my tracks and listened intently to the wind as it made its way through the trees and flora because I heard, or imagined that I had heard, something out of the ordinary. Something that just didn't fit in with the knowledge and experience that I had acquired over the years as a swamp dweller. Sometimes it wasn't the wind, sometimes it was a complete and enveloping silence.

When the frogs cease to croak, and the crickets no longer chirp, it's an eerie feeling that can make the hair on the nape of your neck stand at attention.

I had never really given it much thought until one night while wading through calf deep water in search of frogs for dinner, the aforementioned silence fell over the landscape. I paused, I listened for what seemed a small eternity. Nothing, No sound and only the light of my headlamp reflecting off the cool brown water in the river of grass. I waited and eventually the crickets restarted their chorus of nightly calls to potential mates. The frogs joined in and the deafening orchestra of night in the swamps resumed. I continued my hunt and returned home to Gator Hook after a while. After waking the following day and heading over to Pinecrest for some lunch, I was told that that night one of the local Miccosukee men had succumbed to sadness over the loss of his wife to another and killed himself.

To this day I wonder if that wasn't the event that triggered my experience the night prior.

On another evening years later I was walking along the gravel road enjoying a light sprinkle of rainfall that had cooled the evening air during the hot and humid South Florida night when once again everything stopped. No noise, no wind, nothing. I remember it like it was yesterday, the next day I was told that there had been a murder not too far from home, Hmmm.

There are spirits in those swamps, thousands of them. Indian spirits, the ghosts of pioneers that fell victim to wild animals and natives alike. The phantoms lost to wander the woods forever in search of comfort and possibly a way out. Over the last hundred years many bodies have been discarded in the Everglades by organized crime families, serial killers, and drug smugglers. My own cousin was one. There are spirits in those woods, and they aren't leaving anytime soon.

I hadn't ever considered writing about this topic because the world is full of skeptics. However, my wife Lissa reminded me that this was for the October issue and Halloween etc. We never really celebrated the holiday in the Glades. I don't know why, maybe it was because it was a three mile walk between houses!

Rigg's Outpost FISHING REPORT OCTOBER FORECAST

By Captain Pompano Rich

Autumn is the beginning of the adventure we live for, and Brevard is a big part of this life cycle. We welcome you to witness the mass migrations of fish and birds. The air and water temps are falling, days shorten and wild life recognizes this. It's called the Circadian Cycle.

The Jetstream dips move south effecting the entire East Coast. As the length of day shortens the biological clocks stimulates this movement. I live for these days. Anglers are aware, hunters are aware and follow wild game and fish. My job is to remind tourists where to go, what to bring, and present the possibilities!

The site of humongous schools of diverse baits and sea birds diving gracefully into the ocean is a rush. The emergence of so many species under these schools and bursting into the air. One would think the fishing could be easy and IT IS! I travel with many rods with pretied lures and rigs checking the beach scape identifying the fish. As a guide you have to be ready. Oh Spanish Mackerel then mid weight spinning rod armed with a Rapala Lure. Same goes for the feisty bluefish. Sometimes one approach covers many such opportunities.

First lets start with enjoying the coast and the Sebastian Inlet. Two spinning rods will cover most species in the surf. A nine foot medium action spinning rod rated 15 to 20 lb test line. This data is on the rod any rod. This will cover your lure casting for mackerel, bluefish and jacks. A 10 to 12 ft rod rated 20 to 30 lb. line with medium. Medium means limber at the tip to detect bite detection when fishing for pompano and whiting. Then again stiff enough to cast a chunk of bait for redfish and sharks.

Offshore activity is intense. Grouper season is open until November. Generally they're offshore but with cooler temps they head for the patch reefs in 40 to 60 feet of water. Local party boats will provide rods and fresh bait. You will have opportunities to catch big king fish and cobia on party boats. But to catch these remarkable fighters it's best to hire a charter captain. With two to four anglers aboard your captain will hunt the frigate birds and other visual tell tale surface eruptions bait on the way to the fishing grounds.

Staying at an efficiency and love to cook, then Rigg's can help. Inside Rigg's is Hornbelly's Seafood. Fresh off the boat they have Snapper, grouper, shrimp and other delicious seafood.
