THOSE WERE

PART VIII

The Glory Days

by Judy Tatum Lane

Changes in music and society were happening at such a tremendously fast pace. But Kenny Cohen and his bands had not only kept up, but kept ahead, giving great musicians such as Dave Fiester, Bill Hoffman, Austin Pettit, a list of musicians that was endless, a chance to grow a little older, gain experience, and progress in their musical ability, and that they did!!! But while they were still trying to perfect their craft, Kenny along with Steve Bland, Jimmy Rudolph and Don "Dumptruck" Hanna were in New York making the pages of "Variety" playing for audiences consisting of patrons such as Truman Capote and Keith Richards from the Rolling Stones, and had just recorded an album. The group was none other than a version of "New Days Ahead". Dave Fiester who would later become an icon to fans and other musicians as well, had a respect for Kenny, along with most of the other musicians and music lovers, who still today consider him the first and original musical icon, and maintain the respect now they had for him then.

It wasn't long before Kenny and Dave would be on the same stage together, and in time Austin Pettit along with Debby Boyer would form a band with Kenny. I'm sure many of you had a chance to see that one. I first saw them at Doctor Joe's when my husband John Lane sat in on bass for them (Kenny played sax, which was his original instrument of choice and the bass guitar came later). You better believe I was right up there in front, again after many years of not having seen Kenny play (the last time was our random meeting in Gainesville), and what a sound. This particular band was formed after Austin left the Groove Monsters to pursue other interests. Austin along with Steve Miller had formed the original "Groove Monsters" after leaving the well known band "Grinderswitch" and returning to the area from Georgia. They brought in Dave who played guitar along side Austin for 10 years, with Bill Hoffman on drums, and Calvin on bass until Mark Glisson joined as bass player and played for so many years with the Groove Monsters and became very close to Dave. Dave kept the Groove Monsters going after Austin and Steve Miller parted from the band, and the rest is history. Austin would join together with Kenny, Debby Boyer, Kurt Austin and Randy Crouch, and excluding Kenny who after a time decided to pursue a career as a soloist, they have now been together for over nine years as the Austin Pettit Band with Debby Boyer. This is a band that I see staying together until...the time this band has persevered, become very tight both musically and as friends, along with the Groove Monsters, is just unheard of. And how fortunate for us in both cases.

I want to get back to Fresh Squeezed, but before I do I have to tell you something that I find of great interest and hope you will as well. With the time of year it is, all the articles in the paper, happenings at the pier with the big, yearly, spring surfing contest, I have to tell you that Kenny surfed as well as he plays his bass and sax. In 1962 he won what was the first surfing contest at the "Canaveral Pier". I just had to throw that in because I love it. But that's another whole story I could go on about forever. I'm sure it only makes sense to me, but I relate those days of surfing so much with the music of the time, a very big time in my life. That's what you did if you lived in Cocoa Beach in the 60's, you surfed, listened to and/or played music, and your parents were really happy if sometimes even though the waves were good, you went to school. Hard core cases who just couldn't seem to pick school over surfing (males) were sent to Florida Air Academy in Melbourne as punishment, and to learn to be good, responsible adults. Fortunately for some, the school was private and rather expensive and not all parents who wanted to do so could send their kids there. But Cocoa Beach High gave Florida Air a fair share of business.

Well, it was time for Fresh Squeezed to load up the vans and move on down the road to the next gig. Just getting into the van should be a simple thing to do, but not with this group. We spent a lot of time and drove more miles on the road than I liked at times. Dave and the other guys would always argue over who would get to ride shotgun in Jack's van. Fortunately I had only John to contend with in the step van. But this one particular time while playing in Jacksonville, Florida, Bob Montalvo jumped into the front passenger's seat and Dave was determined it was going to be his. He had won it fair and square and his turn had come. He would not be stuck in the back. And so it all began, the playful scuffling, pulling and pushing, etc., and before it was over, Jack Sullivan was taking Dave to the emergency room. Bob had kicked the door open which hit Dave's hand just the right way (or I should say the wrong way). The band had a gig that night, and besides being in a lot of pain Dave couldn't use his finger to play. Seeing as how Dave was the one and only guitarist, with not even a rhythm guitar in this band to take over, this was serious business and the band had to figure out something. So they did. I don't have to tell you about the way Dave played slide guitar as only Dave could do. Well, it was no different even back then while he was very young. And I'll give you one guess which finger was sprained so badly it was almost broken. But not to fear, the band (I think Jack Sullivan) came up with the perfect solution. Dave's finger must have been 5 inches in circumference from the bandages, and Velcro had just hit the market and was very popular for convenience and easy use. So why not Velcro Dave's slide to the bandages on his finger so he could play, and that's just what they did, and he played beautifully. It wasn't very funny at the time, but thinking back and picturing Dave standing there, now, I can't help but smile. It seems that the guys would have learned something from this, but when Saturday wrestling came on television, the band could not miss it, would end up having their own wrestling match getting each other in head locks and body slams, and before it was over, putting out part of their pay and losing their deposits for the hotel room. And unlike the wrestling on television, sometimes people got a little banged up. If they could go back and change it, they would do it all the same way. They had fun!! And there was so much to look forward to. As my husband was saying just today, so many of the musicians that we know now and knew then, developed somewhat of a cynical side towards everything trying to play music encompassed (although they would never give it up), but Dave was always very optimistic

Chris Long Tours With Poison & We Set...

A NEW DATE FOR THE THIRD ANNUAL BMAs

by Chris Long

The Third Annual Brevard Live Music Awards ceremony is certainly shaping up to be the biggest and best yet. However, an annual event of this magnitude is bound to endure some changes, modifications and general “growing pains” along the way. First and foremost the date for this year’s show has been postponed until Monday, August 28th, 6 pm.

What gives? Well, as many of you may have heard I was recently hired as a personal assistant to the legendary multi-platinum selling band Poison. As a personal assistant I will be on the road with the band throughout their upcoming 20th Anniversary world tour. It’s a very exciting opportunity for me, however, the tour schedule would have put me in Canada at the time of the original award ceremony date. I first suggested to our editor Heike Clarke that a new show host be selected to replace me. I was, however, quickly and soundly informed that this was not an option. So, rather than risking a flight delay and really screwing up the show at the last minute, Heike and I felt that it would be best for everyone if we just “played it safe” by postponing the awards show by a couple of weeks. The good thing about this change is that now finalists will have longer to promote themselves, our readers will have extra time for casting ballots and I’ll have a better chance of possibly bringing along a couple of “special guest” VIPs.

Another change this year is that we’ve moved the show from a Sunday night to a Monday night. What gives? Well, we noticed over the last couple of years that especially during the summer months many of our area musicians have Sunday afternoon “pool deck” type gigs. We hope by altering the day of the week that even more players and performers can attend the BMAs.

Also this year we will be providing an “FYI” area in the Henegar Center’s front lobby. This area will be specifically designated for bands, solo acts and other performers to distribute CDs, promo photos, business cards, etc. before the show and during intermission. It will be a cool opportunity to meet and greet fans and local industry types who will be attending the event.

So let’s get ready for a great summer and a great party. We’ve now moved past the “nomination” process and finalist ballots can be found in this issue of Brevard Live. The same ballots will be printed in the June and July issues. Finalist ballots must now be received at the Brevard Live office by July 31st. Winners will be announced live at our hometown version of The Grammys, The Third Annual BMA Ceremony on Monday, August 28th at Melbourne’s Henegar Performing Arts Center. The Danny Morris Band will be returning as the show’s “house band” and the night will be full of fun and surprises. Come dressed to impress and enjoy a “big time” show full of great live music. Advance tickets will be available soon. Stand by for further details. And don’t forget the official “after show” celebration at Siggy’s in Palm Bay featuring an all-star jam hosted by The Matt Sams Band.

*Although the BMAs were delayed due to my commitment to this summer’s Poison World Tour, it all worked out for the best. August 28th is a better date for the Awards Ceremony and I still get to hang out all summer with the world’s all-time greatest drummer RIKKI ROCKETT!

P.S. We’ve amended our “retirement” policy a bit. I want to say (again) that the BMAs are all about INclusion not EXclusion. We “retire” an act from future competition only after they have won the “Entertainer of the Year” award. This is done only to make it fair for other bands in the future and to keep the event fresh. The original idea was that a band should want to “go out on top.” Look, we don’t have time to be making up a bunch of rules governing eligibility when a “retired” band breaks up or when a member quits a “retired” band and starts a new one. Who cares! We just thought that staging the annual “Let’s Give Everything to Absolute Blue” awards show would get a bit stale after a while. Why is this concept so hard for some to grasp? Anyway, this year you may see a new member or two of an existing “retired” group nominated in a category because they weren’t in the band at the time the previous awards were won. Also, if a retired band breaks up and the members start new bands, yes, the new bands are eligible to be nominated for future awards. After all we REALLY do want this to be as fair as possible to as many people as possible. Geeze, this issue is making my hair hurt. ‘Nuff said, end of discussion.

RINGO STARR AND HIS ALL-STARR BAND

What a line-up of musicians! Not that Ringo Starr wouldn't pull a big crowd by himself, but he's bringing some of the greatest legends in the history of rock'n'roll along with him. If you don't want to miss the show get your ticket early.

Ringo Starr is the world's most famous drummer. He completed the line-up for the rock band that would change music forever - the Beatles. Not only did his inventive drumming help provide The Beatles distinctive sound, but he fulfilled other very real needs. Ringo was the one everyone could get along with.

The same qualities that helped make The Beatles a legendary group are still in evidence today as Ringo continues to bring respected musicians together to create some of the most fun-filled summer concerts in the history of Rock. What was true in the 60's holds true today, when Ringo is involved a splendid time is guaranteed for all. So here's his All-Starr Band:

Billy Squier: He had a string of arena rock and power ballad hits in the early 1980s. He is probably best known for the song "The Stroke" on his 1981 album release, Don't Say No. Other hits include "In The Dark", "Rock Me Tonight" and "Everybody Wants You".

Edgar Winter: He is a keyboard player, vocalist, saxophonist and percussionist, well-versed in jazz, blues and rock.

Richard Marx: He's an adult contemporary singer and songwriter, who had a string of successful hit singles in the late 1980s and early 1990s.

Rod Argent: He was a founding member of the 1960s British pop group The Zombies and the 1970s band Argent.

Mark Hudson: He was a member of the Hudson Brothers, and has produced albums for Ringo Starr, Aerosmith, Hanson and the Baha Men.

Sheila E.: She is a remarkable drummer and percussionist. She had also played with Lionel Richie, Marvin Gaye, Herbie Hancock, and Diana Ross.

EDDIE MONEY - 30 YEARS ROCKIN'

by Chris Long

The annual "Summer Concert Series" produced by Southern Jam Promoters have become sell-outs in the past years. The first "Big Show" of 2006 features classic rocker Eddie Money on Sunday, May 28th (Memorial Day Weekend) at the Melbourne Auditorium. The concert starts at 7 pm with local rock bands Ozone, Million Tiny Fingers, and The Bad Boys. Eddie Money takes the stage at 9:30 pm.

The year was 1977 and in those days "recording artists" were (believe it or not) musicians. They wrote (implies playing an instrument) music and they sang (implies melody) songs. Fleetwood Mac and The Eagles battled it out most of the year for prime position on the Billboard Top 200 album chart while lesser know acts like Journey and REO Speedwagon were beginning their ascension from mid level opening act status to full fledged platinum selling headliners. In the latter part of that year a "little" self-titled debut album by a young, unknown singer/songwriter from Long Island hit record store shelves nationwide. And within six months (as the kids say today) it "blew up!"

That self-titled debut album was by the one and only Eddie Money. Thanks to a rigorous touring schedule, various television appearances, and (lots of) radio airplay, the record became a Top 20 platinum smash. And hit singles like Baby Hold On and Two Tickets To Paradise quickly made the former Eddie Mahoney a household name.

But that was just the beginning for the one time New York cop. In 1979 he beat the dreaded "sophomore jinx" by duplicating the success of his debut record with the album Life For The Taking. With the added popularity of his new chartbusting hits, Maybe I'm A Fool and Gimme Some Water, Eddie Money had very quickly become the superstar he'd always dreamed of becoming. However, along with the rock and roll fame usually comes certain "distractions" like drugs, booze, broads, etc. And it was under the influence of this wacky and (often) lethal combination of extracurricular "distractions" that he released the poorly received 1980 album Playing For Keeps.

Fortunately by 1982 Money was back in top form racking up two more hits with Shakin' and I Think I'm In Love. With advent of MTV Eddie Money was now both a radio AND television star. Over the next few years Eddie Money would go on to score even bigger hits like Take Me Home Tonight and Walk On Water.

Today he continues touring successfully almost year 'round and his newest release, 2005's Wanna Go Back is an amazing collection of 1960s remakes including Jackie Wilson's Higher And Higher, The Rascals' Good Lovin' and the Marvin Gaye/Tammi Terrell classic Ain't No Mountain High Enough.

Like last year's show, it will be a "SHRIMP & SUDS" night. 1000 lbs. of steamed shrimp, and 1000 gallons of ice cold Budweiser are inclusive with the VX pass and VIP tickets sold only in advance.

The exclusive VX Pass is $80 (in advance only) and includes front row tables, wait staff, liquor, beer and All-U-Can-Eat shrimp. Early admission at 6 pm. VIP tickets are $60 (in advance only/ all inclusive). General admission is $35 at the day of show, box office opens at 9:30 am. Super Rocket Frozen Margaritas are for sale in all of the Auditorium bars at the show for $7. Food concession will be available. For more concert and ticket information go to www.southernjam.com or call 321-723-1100.

MAY 9TH AT COCOA BEACH PAVILLION:

SIEGEL-SCHWALL BAND

by Heike Clarke

This group is legendary, the event is unique and the story behind it is one of the coolest stories I've ever told. It all started by meeting Joel Silver from Cocoa Beach who is organizing the "Siegel-Schwall" concert on May 9th at the Cocoa Beach Pavilion. This led to a phone conversation with blues harp master Corky Siegel that made me understand that at this stage of the "Siegel-Schwall Fame" it's all about another legend in this band - Sam Lay, the drummer of Little Walter, Willie Dixon, Muddy Waters, Howlin' Wolf, Paul Butterfield, even Bob Dylan, and of course the Siegel-Schwall Band.

Corky Siegel has been a blues protégé ever since he took the stage in the South Side of Chicago in 1965. "We got this gig on Thursday night hosting a celebrity jam at Pepper's. Jim Schwall and I were still learning our instruments when we were jamming with the bluesmasters," Corky explained. And while names like Muddy Waters and Howlin' Wolf were inspirations for groups like the Rolling Stones, for Siegel-Schwall they were the guys that jammed with them on 43rd Street.

In 1965 they were signed by a record label and recorded nine releases in the following years, the last one, called R.I.P., in 1974 before the Siegel-Schwall Band went on hiatus. And while band members pursued other interests and solo projects, they never stopped playing music.

The group reunited in 1987 and released the joyous "The Siegel-Schwall Reunion Concert" on Alligator Records, with fans and critics alike heralding their return. "We have fun playing together and people wanted to hear us, so we had a lot of Reunion Concerts over the following years", Corky laughed. But writing new blues tunes and recording new material were not on the agenda. "We are all busy pursuing other projects", explained Corky who is focused on his "Chamber Blues", the combination of classical chamber music and Chicago Blues, a new sound of music by Corky Siegel that only sounds eccentric until you hear it.

So why did Siegel-Schwall decide to release another blues album in 2005, Flash Forward on Alligator Records? "All of us have been writing songs for years except for Sam Lay. We wanted Sam to start writing his music", said Corky. "That's what it was all about."

Sam Lay had doubts at first. "You have to help me", he

Joel Silver Organizes Blues Concerts FOR THE LOVE OF MUSIC...

The title says it all! When it comes to music - especially blues - Joel Silver forgets that he is a successful business man. He's a sponsor, a supporter, an enthusiastic fan, and above everything, the best friend a bluesman can have.

"Joel's love for music comes truly from his heart. He doesn't seek fame or fortune. He is just another artist and a friend", said Corky Siegel.

The friendship began about 4 years ago when Joel started talking to Corky by e-mail. A year later Joel traveled to Chicago to see a double show of Siegel-Schwall and Chamber Blues and met his blues heroes in person. They became friends and Joel was a welcomed guest at many more shows.

When he discovered this year that Siegel-Schwall were performing in Florida in May, he had the idea to bring this great blues band to Brevard County. There was nobody better to organize this concert but the man who loves it the most - Joel Silver. He stuck his neck out, rented the pavilion, hired Central Florida's prestigious sound and lighting company JLA, and is now selling concert-tickets for $20 (donations) available at Sunseed Food Co-op in Cape Canaveral (or call 321-784-0930).

Joel who's originally from Boston came to Florida in 1971. In 1974 he founded Sunseed Food Co-op in Cape Canaveral offering a large selection of affordable health food products. He worked hard, raised a family and in his spare time he listened to his favorite music, the blues.

Now in his sixties, Joel decided to foster the cultural part of life, and organizing a few good blues concerts in our county is only part of it. "I am having a good time traveling and attending all kinds of shows", he said. In the past few years he's traveled with the Nighthawks who named him "their official groupie auditioner" - "Yeah, I wish", Joel chuckled. Another good friend is the blues reverend Billy C. Wirtz.

Joel helps wherever he can: Sells CDs or DVDs at the show, tapes the concert, even let his friends use his RV as a dressing room. He's a true friend.

said to his fellow musicians and they promised. “But before we were able to get back with him, he wrote his first tune. Then he started writing song after song”, remembered Corky. Four songs on the new CD Flash Forward are written by Sam Lay which marks the beginning of his writing career. So can we expect more new and original releases by Siegel-Schwall? “No”, said Corky. “We have no intension on recording any more.”

And this is the story of the Siegel-Schwall Band that does not end because their friendship never ends. Good vibes and positive attitude are part of their groove. “Jim Schwall used to remind me that if music can’t be fun we shouldn’t be doing it”, said Corky, and therefore the Siegel-Schwall brand of blues is fun-loving, uplifting and anything but sad - just like the four musicians that are playing it.

This month, May 9th, Siegel-Schwall will perform for the first time in Brevard County at the Cocoa Beach Pavilion on West Minutemen Causeway. How did we get so lucky? That’s another story about friendship - the friendship of Siegel-Schwall and business man and blues fan Joel Silver of Cocoa Beach (see story on page 16). For tickets and concert information call 321-784-0930.

PIER GOT LIFE GUARDS!

The Cocoa Beach Pier is a 43 year old landmark recognized by many as the Surf capital of the East Coast. Yet, up to now, there were no lifeguards. "It was time to change this considering the Pier has over one million visitors every year", said Giles Melone, president of the Cocoa Beach Pier. With the help of the county and the City of Cocoa Beach, the Pier now has a brand -new lifeguard service. The photo shows the ribbon cutting: (from left to right) Rick Stottler, Wyatt Werneth (BC Ocean Rescue), Ron Pritchard, Helen Voltz, Giles Malone, and Jackie Colon.

Movies

by Greg Kimple
 & Franco Dean

It is that time again. April was a viewing bonanza of cheese-ball, horror films viewed in the comfort of my own home, thanks to the Blockbuster movie pass. I gave each rental 20 minutes to amuse, entertain or repulse me. If it accomplished one of those 3 goals I watched on, if not, it was outta there. The highlight of my journey was a film where the verbage on the box cover said it all: "Hammerhead" Half Shark, Half Man, Total Terror! Overacting, a mad scientist on an uncharted island & a man in a rubber shark suit made it a delightful watch. Let me not forget the super over-lit filming and the stellar cast which included Jeffrey Combs (Re-animator) & William Forsythe (Gotti). Especially impressive is Forsythe's knack for referring to his female love interest in the film as "babe" multiple times. Example: Hey babe, you better hurry up. Watch out Babe. Watch out for the viscious shark, babe. RENT IT NOW BABE!!!

INSIDE MAN

This is the 4th film collaboration between director Spike Lee and D. W. (Mo Better Blues, Malcolm X, He Got Game). Of the 4 aforementioned films this is Spike's most mainstream picture yet. It begins on a dog day afternoon with a Manhattan bank being taken over by what appears to be industrial painters led by Dalton Russell (Owen). He has a plan to rob the bank, but not of its money. His crew of thieves is dressed in sun glasses, matching jump suits and cloth face masks. So as to include his guests, Russell gets all of the hostages to strip down to their underwear and wear the same identical disguise as their captors. That's a novel idea for a bank heist movie. Hostage negotiator Detective Keith Frasier (D. W.), who himself is involved in an ongoing corruption investigation talks to Russell and quickly figures out that this is not your garden variety bank heist, the crooks seem to not be in a hurry. The bank chairman, Arthur Case (Plummer) is the owner of a secret safe deposit box which the real target of our thieves, and therein lies the rub. Mr Case hires Madelynn White (Foster), a sexy, cool, high heeled "fixer" to negotiate with Russell and recover the precious safety deposit box. But wait, D. W. is the negotiator. Between Denzel and Jodie there lies a total of 4 Oscars, so there is no question that Spike stacked the acting deck when he signed on to do this one. Toss in DaFoe and Plummer and a credible performance by Owen as the calm and cocky heist master and all of this talent should add up to box office gold. No, we didn't forget to mention Jodie Foster, the oversight is intentional, you could literally cut her parts totally out of the film and the end product would not suffer. Maybe she'll get nominated for the stupidist role of the year. This role is so inane that it will inspire no one, much less a John Hinkley wannabe. Inside Man is clever, engrossing, humourous, engaging and fast moving. The melting pot of New York characters is very impressive, with Spike's use of class, racial tensions and stereotypes very evident. B-

BILL VAN RIPER YET ANOTHER GREAT IDEA

I got this great idea while I was writing last month's article, and decided to save it to make a whole article out of it. These two articles, and the next one kind of go together, so cut them out, and staple them all together in June. They won't make any more sense than they do now, but it will be a fun project, AND, it will force you to read next month's article, which, if I can get my stuff together in time, will be a doozy. Oh, and speaking of last month's article on the Feds and the illegal income tax, I just want to add that the national debt is now at $8,420,258,892,777.41. That's over 8 BILLION dollars! Now nobody can really conceive of that high a number, so let me help you. If you count back in time just one billion minutes, Jesus would not have been born yet. In the time it took to write that last sentence the debt grew by $7,416,683.29. YIKES!

Ok, so here is my new idea: give the President a raise. WHAT?! you say? I wouldn't give that s...-s..... p... the time of day, I hear you say. Well, let me explain. It seems to me that our president, and our Federal government in general, don't really like to listen to us. Oh, they might listen, but they will keep on doing the same old nonsense they always do, regardless of whether we want them to or not. Way back in the good old days, it use to be that our votes actually meant something, but our votes don't seem to scare our politicians any more, and we all see what a joke elections have become. So, my new idea is to hit 'em where it hurts. Nothing will scare a politician more than taking his bucks away. I say, let's pay our Federal government directly. Yeah man, every year, we all write them a check, but if we don't like 'em, we don't write squat! It will be voluntary, like the Federal Income Tax was supposed to be. See how easy and logical this idea is? If you like a guy, send him some bucks, but if you don't, don't send him a dime. How much simpler could it be?

So, how much do we have to actually send all these scuz-buckets? Practically nothing! I've been doing some calculating, against the better judgment of my psychiatrist. Here is how it all adds up. The president's pay at this time is $400,000 a year. The population of the United States is currently 295,734,134. Now if we divide, uh...let's see....carry the one, divide by the cosecant of 60 degrees, add to Tommy Tresh's lifetime batting average, subtract the minimum daily requirements for Cesium, and voila! That comes to $0.00135593220 per person. And they say you can't get anything for a penny these days. Hell, we can buy almost 10 presidents! Now you've probably noticed that this figure includes babies, the unemployed, jazz guitarists, and others who don't really make any money, so, ok, we can deal with that. At last count there were 7.2 million people unemployed in this great land of ours. By the way, that's just $9762.71 of the prez's annual bucks. Ok, lets get them out of the picture, and lets also say that you pay for your family. In other words, if you have 4 kids, you pay 4 times the amount a person who has no kids would pay. Not fair? Maybe, but just to make the math easier, let's not quibble over 3/10ths of a cent, ok? Cool. Now the total per person is: $0.001384, rounded off to the nearest ten thousandth of a cent. See? Now we all pay about 3/100 of a penny more to cover the unemployed. And jazz musician? Well, since that's about what we get payed every job, it should be no problem

If we extend this out to Congress, by the way, we will get the following figures: Congressional pay averages out to $165,200. Multiply that by 535 Congress people, and you get: $88,382,000. I know, this sounds like a lot, but the fact is, this only comes to about 30 cents per person. A little less than that actually, so it's no sweat. Even if we raised the president's pay, like I said in the beginning of this article, just to round things off, we would still only need less than 31 cents a person to pay these guys! Now isn't that cool? If we DID pay 31 cents a person, by the way, that would come to $91,677,581.54. This means that we could pay the president, and everybody in congress, and still have $2,895,581.54 left over, which, put another way, is about 7 more presidents. Is this cool or what?!?!?! But wait it gets even better!

Yep, here's the good part. Let's do a little recap here. If every man, woman, and child (and jazz musician) chipped in just 31 cents a year, we could pay for Congress and the Prez, and still have bucks left over (ok, the veep will be about a tenth of a cent or so two, but let's keep the numbers easy). That's 100% of the population paying. Well, the last I heard, our fearless leader had only about a 38% approval rating. Well, I say, let THOSE people pay for him! Damn, the rest of us don't like him. We want to cash him in for somebody who knows how to pronounce the word 'nuclear' and someone who is a little more afraid to use that word, so why should we pay for him? So, for example, if we keep his starting pay at four hundred grand, but this year, only 38% of the people payed him, he'd make only a hundred and forty grand! Now imagine if we did that for all of our elected(?) politicians. My estimate is that it would cost us each about fifty cents a year if we include governors, etc.. Don't you think that would send a message to the flake-faces in Washington? Yeah man! Like I said, hit them where it hurts. Of course $140,000 a year ($2692.31 a week) ain't nothing to sneeze at considering that the average wage (Jan-Feb '06) is about 555 bucks a week, but hey man, a guys gotta have some flying around the world bucks if he's the commander in chief. As a small aside, as a result of my in depth research for this article I found out that 68% of the populace thinks that congressional pay is too high. Under my plan, we will now be able to do something about it. If we stick together, we have a lot of buying power.

Ok, so here's how it goes down. We don't want to pay these bastards directly. Too many stamps involved. No, we need something easier. This is America after all. We need some kind of Central Collection Agency to take our two quarters a year and disburse them to the proper Washington wang-faces. Wait. Don't we already have something like that in place? YEAH! They are called the Internal Revenue Service!! Ok, so we abolish all income taxes, and turn the I.R.S. into our personal collection agency, and let them deal with Washington. Man, isn't this a great plan, or what? I don't know about you, but I think this is the best idea I've had in a long time. I don't care what my psychiatrist says.

"The real menace of our Republic is the invisible government which, like a giant octopus, sprawls its slimy legs over our cities, states, and nations."

Mothers

Matt's For Lunch:
MATT & DEBORAH

Matt was 17 when he visited his Dad, and Deb, in Kenya. He and Deb got to know one another over a bucket of fresh squid they were cleaning for dinner. Conversation turned to Matt's plans after high school as Deb poked and prodded the typical teenager to contemplate his future. She observed that as he was enjoying the slimy process of preparing dinner, he might consider cooking as a profession.

Matt took it from there. He graduated from Johnson and Wales, and worked in a number of Brevard's fine dining establishments, including the legendary Wine Gallery. His father and Deb continued to work and live overseas and in Washington DC. When he visited them in Thailand he experienced foods and flavors that inspired him to return and open the first small Matt's Tropical Grill. Matt's 'real' Mom was the partner who made this possible and Deb was a resource for business planning. Matt says he's a lucky chef to have two moms.

Deb eventually left management and after graduating from the Culinary Institute of America, joined Matt in the business. Now they are serving up unique dishes at "Matt's for Lunch" in downtown Melbourne.

My mother raised 4 boys by herself. When we were kids growing up in New York, she was a Private Investigator. I used to go on stake outs with her. I thought it was so cool. She always tried to include us in things that were important to her. In reality, she only wanted to be around her children. She has struggled her entire life to give us everything and more than we needed. Although we never had money, we were always happy. Our lives were filled with love. She was always there for us. She taught us respect, honesty, loyalty, integrity and kindness. These values mean so much to her. She is the most giving person I have ever known. Her love is unconditional. Lately, things have been very hard for her and our family and she still finds it easy to be kind. She thinks that she disappoints me, but I look up to her. She is my best friend and I am so proud to be her son.

Talk of the Town:

INTERVIEW WITH CHRIS LONG

by Bruce Marion

Chris, you're about to embark on a new road project with your pals from Poison?

Chris: Yes, it's a huge world tour, they're out for their 20th anniversary and supporting that is a new POISON Greatest Hits album on Capitol Records. Our tour starts on 6-13-06 in Minnesota and goes on across the US and Canada. And possibly on to Australia and Japan.

With your background experience so varied, what is your particular role with POISON's tour?

Chris: As personal assistant, directly to the band. I guess after 12 years of successfully shuffling Dead Serious from hotel to hotel, back when we were hot, I could do the job.

What about your current album project with Katty (of Katty and the Tribe)?

Chris: We're in various stages of demo work, getting closer and closer...with a huge arsenal of national music industry levels to tap, the Ginsu knives of the business, if you will...

More about her future...any chance Poison local Bobby Dall will produce that album?

Chris: Still shopping, shopping, shopping with everyone. Katty is only 21 and I've only been one year involved with it but I think she's going to be the biggest pop star known to mankind! She writes, sings, plays guitar, bass, keyboards..., she dances, acts and with a spark and a charm that will even overcome the idea that we're geographically challenged here in Brevard with minimal national industry..

Dead Serious, a reunion date coming up?

Chris: Also a Dead Serious 20th year reunion at Siggy's on Mother's Day, back by popular demand even though I thought we were done, every day someone's asking me about Butterbean Queen or Psycho Dyke and a Merritt Island fan recently started a myspace.com page for us. We're not the same guys we were back then and we're here to have fun.

Glitterhick, the band, your thoughts?

Chris: Wow, my favorite band ever, though probably not enough impact was made..

Mr. Pink and of course, Burnt Toast?

Chris: Mr. Pink we did like two band gigs and Burnt Toast, they're happy just to play a few gigs, I don't really have that much time but they just won't let me quit...

I think you're the hardest working man in show biz...

Chris: ...and you have to take a pay cut from deejaying sometimes to play with the bands. I've gotta lotta heart, if not talent, I do a lot of stuff just half assed and that makes me in demand and I'm thankful that this tour will expand my national project involvements. I'm grateful to this area and that maybe I can step up to the next level, no ego or attitude but it's like I hope I've graduated up to it.

How will this effect your hosting the BMA?

Chris: The BMA got postponed until August 28th as I'll be

SUNSET JAZZ
BLUES CRUISE

WFIT 89.5FM presents Sunset Jazzy-Blues Cruise, Friday, May 12th from 6:30 to 9:30 pm. Leaving from Whitley Bay Marina in Cocoa the Jazzy-Blues Cruise promises to be a fun-filled evening of music, socializing, and food provided by Fishlips Bar and Grill in Port Canaveral.

Musicians will entertain on two of the boat's three decks. Deck one or The Queens Room will feature "Blues Diva" Juanita Dixon and her trio. Dixon is referred to by many as "The Bluez Mama". Her seductive Jazz and Blues vocals and passionate delivery are the real deal. The second deck of the Indian River Queen will feature "The Sweet, Cool and Sassy" Quintet. Keyboardist, Ossie Wright's quick fingers will entertain and delight; Ron Pirtle on bass will keep the beat going along with drummer Dave Dunscombe. Rich Hall on tenor saxophone is featured singer Vicki Belmonte's choice of horn players. Belmonte, Port St. Lucie resident and former Broadway stage performer, sings jazz from deep within her soul. Join WFIT DJ's and friends aboard the Indian River Queen Paddleboat. Call WFIT at 321-674-8950 for your reservations.

ERNIE SOUTHERN

All of a sudden he was here: Ernie Southern - Delta Blues! He started playing in all the popular places on the beach and along the Indian River. Then the Space Coast Blues Society organized their first Regional Blues Challenge, and Ernie Southern won in the solo category. So where is this successful musician coming from? BL asked him and - as expected - found out that this "new kid on Brevard's blues block" is by far no rookie on the music scene.

Ernie Southern had two choices growing up in the streets of New York - either to join one of the popular singing groups or become a member of a street gang. "I liked to sing doo-wop, back then it was called 'race music', now we call it rhythm & blues", remembered Ernie. Back then, in the early 60's, they were walking around the city and subways trying to find the right spots for acoustics. His acapella group "Nick and the Knacks" became well-known and started opening for acts like "The Four Seasons" or "Anthony and the Imperials". But just when Chess Records wanted to sign them up, all members of the group got drafted for the Vietnam War. Ernie went to the Navy, and that's where he taught himself to play guitar and studied some of the old masters like Blind Lemon Jefferson and Lightnin' Hopkins.

When Ernie returned to the US, he moved to California, studying music and playing bass in jazz-rock-fusion bands. He came to Fort Lauderdale in 1979 and joined the ever touring retro-rock band "Risk" playing bass guitar. "I needed to make money, so I played for money", said Ernie. But by 1992 Ernie was ready to move on to the music style he's always loved - delta blues! He's opened up for acts as John Hammond, Leon Russell, John Mooney to name a few. And he also won the 2003 South Florida Blues Challenge in Fort Lauderdale, went to Memphis and finished as a top finalist in the acoustic division in the International Blues Foundation's worldwide competition.

To find out where Ernie Southern is playing check the schedule on his website at www.erniesouthern.com.

VARIOUS ARTISTS

Rap Against Violence - 10 Song CD

The concept for this amazing and unique compilation CD was the brain-child of State Attorney Norman R. Wolfinger. The objective was to promote a dialogue within our community that would mobilize citizens into action as means of preventing gun violence in our neighborhoods. A novel alliance was formed between the State Attorney's Office, 102 JAMZ (Orlando's leading hip-hop station), Bright House Networks, and legendary producer/manager Lou Pearlman's Trans Continental Studio. The goal was to entice Central Florida hip-hop artists to produce original rap recordings with anti-gun crime lyrics. The end result was this impressive and articulate, street-smart CD collection featuring the top ten winning tracks.

State Attorney Wolfinger's message is simple: "With the right message, to the right people, by the right messengers; we can spread a word-of-mouth epidemic against gun violence and make every community safer." (www.sa18.state.fl.us)

PETE HARRIS

My Water Ways - Full Length DVD

Over the last few years I've had the privilege of receiving several CDs from Brevard's self-proclaimed "Jimmy Buffett," Pete Harris. However, I must admit that even I was surprised by the extensive volume of inside info provided in this extremely well produced DVD presentation.

Fans get an up close and personal behind the scenes look at Pete's home, pets, guitar collection, photo gallery and (as "they" say) much, much more. Also included is the video for the tune Water Ways and a special tribute to Pete's long time musical partner, the late Dannie Jones. However, my favorite clips are that of the younger, bushier, and (noticeably) thinner Pete Harris live on stage in South Florida during the early to mid

All in all it is a lot of fun and definitely recommended for Pete's many fans throughout Central Florida. (www.peteharrismusic.com)

in Canada on July 30th. I suggested they get a replacement but Heike (Clarke, Brevard Live Publisher) said they couldn't do it without me...which is hard to believe.

Chris, noone has done so much for Brevard's music scene. What was your greatest artistic experience?

Chris: Seriously, working with Katty. She's fresh and exciting and she revitalized me to original music. My soul was dead until 2 and a half years ago and with a little 2 or 3 song demo she recorded in her bedroom she restored my interest in music completely!

Tommy's career has been marked by one triumph after another. In a remarkably short time, he went from performing at a tiny San Francisco saloon to opening act on B.B. King's national tours and international acclaim as one of the most compelling artists on the scene.

The Tommy Castro Band has now released a DVD entitled Whole Lotta Soul. The DVD features Tommy Castro and his band performing live at The Sierra Nevada Brewery in Chico, CA and demonstrates why their live shows have captivated legions of fans. The 11 song set features 9 songs from their current Blind Pig release, Soul Shaker, which spent 19 weeks in the Billboard Blues charts. The Tommy Castro Band received two Blues Music Award nominations this year, including Best Contemporary Blues Male Artist of the Year and Best Contemporary Album of the Year for Soul Shaker.

The Hellhounds are Vince Flora on lead vocals, harp and guitar, John Beemiller on guitar and vocals, Ron Rummage on bass and vocals, and Bill Meredith on drums. They possess a certain sound and play a “90 proof deltabilly blues”.

Their newest release “Halfway Between Somewhere And Nowhere” (December 2005) was recorded at Leeway Music Studios in Memphis. Donald “Duck” Dunn (Booker T. & The M.G.’s, Blues Brothers and Neil Young) served as executive producer.

DUKE ROBILLARD

Duke has been honored as ‘Best Guitarist’ at The Blues Music Awards (formerly The W.C. Handy Awards) 4 of the past 6 years and was named “Best International Blues Artist” in Canada’s Maple Blues Awards three of the past five years.

Inspired by blues legends like T-Bone Walker, Charlie Patton and Big Joe Turner, Duke’s guitar work has seamlessly spanned the worlds of jazz, blues, and swing since he founded the renowned big band, Roomful of Blues, in 1967. Since 1980, Duke has recorded over a dozen acclaimed solo albums and toured the world both with his own band and also as Jimmie Vaughan’s replacement in The Fabulous Thunderbirds. In addition to his own recordings, Duke has played on and/or produced albums by Bob Dylan (1997’s Grammy-winning Time Out of Mind), Ruth Brown, Johnny Adams, Kim Wilson, Jay McShann, Pinetop Perkins, John Hammond, Jimmy Witherspoon, Snooky Pryor and more. Called “one of the great players” by the legendary B.B. King, Duke’s upbeat live performance, accented by a swinging horn section, is a tasteful display of a wide variety of blues styles.

Cafe Unique in Cocoa Village

AMISH DELI, COFFEE SHOP AND DESIGN CENTER

Brevard County finally has an Amish Deli with delicious cheeses and cold-cuts, noodles, ice-cream, jellies, jams and lots of other tasty specialties. Better than that: The deli is part of a coffee shop where you can sit down, sample the goodies, and have some lunch or a snack.

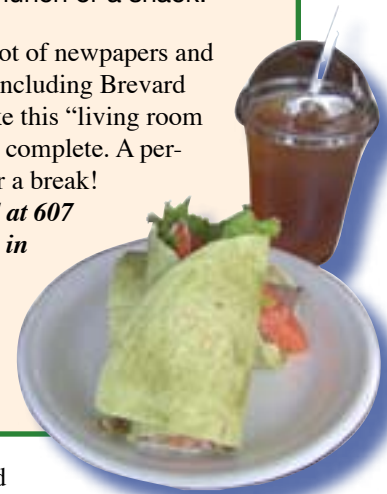

No doubt, this cafe is unique. Besides the comforts of homemade Amish food, it offers an exquisite ambiance which is no surprise since owner Maria Lucas also owns a design center.

We sampled a couple of delicious wraps. You can choose any type of deli meat and cheese that suits your taste with all the fixings you like.

The salsa bar offers a variety of “out of this world”-salsa, like strawberry or raspberry - I had to buy it!

There are a lot of newspapers and magazines (including Brevard Live) to make this “living room atmosphere” complete. A perfect place for a break!

Miyako In Melbourne

“SEE YOU TOMORROW!”

At Miyako, I always start my meal with a Miyako specialty. Sometimes it’s a garlic or cucumber dish but on this visit it was the spicy cabbage. It’s a mix of cabbage, spices and other goodies that sizzle your taste buds and leave your chopsticks clanking for more. It’s no surprise that Miyako has such popular and unique dishes — the Miyako recipes have had time to cure and grow.

Miyako, which means capital, has been on US1 since 1990, but the owner, Mochizuki (Mochi) and co-owners Miyuki and Junko have been in the Japanese cuisine industry for nearly 25 years.

In 1982 they had a Japanese restaurant in Palm Bay then moved the following year to Kyoto in Satellite Beach and finally to Miyako in Melbourne.

For years Miyako was the only sushi restaurant for miles and patrons came from Winter Park, Orlando, Cocoa and Vero Beach. Some patrons from the Winter Park and Orlando area still make the long drive to Melbourne for a taste of Mochi’s famous dishes.

“It has been a very joyful experience for us,” Said Miyuki, adding that she has had some of her customers for a quarter of a century. “And we will be here another 20 years!” Miyuki said. With the food they serve, I wouldn’t be a bit surprised.

Miyako offers a number of side dishes like Teriyaki Beef and Chicken, Egg Rolls, Fried Rice and other Japanese staples. And what Japanese restaurant would complete without a full sushi bar? Miyako has a wide variety of sushi and sashimi including, but definitely not limited to mackerel, salmon, shrimp, tuna, yellow tail and smoked eel. For those not big on sushi I would suggest trying the spicy conch rolls; creamy, spicy sauce with conch stacked on rice and wrapped neatly in seaweed.

Miyako also has numerous entrees to choose from. On this visit I chose the Shrimp Tempura for dinner. The dish not only comes with shrimp, but with carrots, broccoli and zucchini, which are lightly battered and fried to a pleasant crisp that isn’t too soft but doesn’t cut into the roof of your mouth either. White rice and the mysteriously sweet-yet-salty Tempura sauce complete the dish. The dinner menu also includes a Vegetarian Tempura as well as Sukiyaki, Deep Fried Pork, Yosenabe and other traditional Japanese dishes.

Some patrons enjoy a warm cup of Sake to top off their meals, but I prefer a glass of chilled Plum Wine. The wine is a little heavier than a traditional white or blush wine but the taste is smooth and goes great with anything on the menu. They also have Japanese beers, among other beverages.

Eating at Miyako is a cultural experience. At the front door there are mounds of salt, a Buddhist tradition believed to bring good luck and prosperity to all who enter. There is either a Japanese television show on or Japanese background music and when you sit down, you are greeted with warm cloths to wipe your hands on. Of course, there are always chopsticks but there is silverware available for those who are chopstick-challenged. You even experience a bit of Miyako's own tradition when you leave the restaurant. Instead of saying goodbye Miyako's says "See you tomorrow."

So, as it goes, I roll out of the restaurant with an over-full belly and Junko and Miyuki wave and say, almost in unison, "See you tomorrow!"

BIG DADDY DAVE, WE MISS YOU!

It was Good Friday when we said good-bye to Big Daddy Dave who has opened and operated Cocoa Village's finest jazz and blues club successfully for many years. Until a few days before his death, Dave Accurso enjoyed his life, his friends and the music around him. Many musicians showed up to his memorial service and a memorial jam the night before to show last respects to a man who was all about respect. Big Daddy Dave was a big man - he had a big smile, a big passion for music, and an even bigger heart. At Brevard Live Magazine, he was known as the most polite and dependable customer ever. We truly miss you, Big Daddy Dave!

20th Anniversary Extravagonzo

DEAD SERIOS 20TH ANNIVERSARY

Brevard's lovable, hard rockin' misfits Dead Series return to the concert stage this month for the first time in nearly two years to celebrate their belated 20th Anniversary. This is actually year #21 for the award-winning group, however, due to divorce court snafus and re-hab experiences the official 20th Anniversary party had to be postponed. And the fact that the band members have refused to speak to each other for more than a year has also made a reunion concert difficult to orchestrate. The Sunday, May 14th show at Siggys in Palm Bay is being billed as "The biggest thing since World War II" and fans should expect all of the usual pomp and circumstance associated with a typical Dead Series show. The performance starts at 9 pm and Siggys owner Shawn Sigafoos expects this concert to be a sold-out, standing room only rock and roll event of epic proportions. # Art in Brevard

by Lou Belcher

Creativity links Dennis Handa's early years when he jammed on guitar or drums with the best of the best to his more recent years as he stands silently in the wetlands waiting to capture the perfect shot of an Egret guarding its nest. He is a man who strives for and achieves excellence in his creative endeavors. He has developed his photography into an art form. It has evolved only in the last decade after his hearing loss took music (his first passion) away from him.

Handa played guitar and drums and often performed with respected jazz guitarist Buddy Fite. Before taking up photography professionally and moving to Florida, Handa lived most of his life in Portland, Oregon. He owned a music store in the 60s and 70s. Back in those days, major performers didn't cart their own sound equipment from spot to spot when on tour. It was the job of people like Handa to provide the equipment for concerts when groups came through Portland. Consequently, Handa got to know many of the popular individuals and groups, such as Jimi Hendrix, Led Zeppelin, Ike and Tina Turner, The Who, Vanilla Fudge, Deep Purple, Moody Blues, etc. These groups played rock and roll to please their fans, but when they jammed in the Elk's Temple after the concerts, they played great jazz. Handa noted that the groups in those days, especially those from England, were all classically-trained, versatile musicians. He said, "They were incredible musicians and emphasized getting through to the audience."

Handa operated Denny's Music Shop from 1966 to 1972. In 1973, he began working for CBS Musical Instruments (Fender guitars) and was transferred to New York City. He loved the attitude in New York. "They don't take business personally," he said. He worked for CBS until 1981. During that time, he became their artist relations and marketing director. His goal was to have all the top bands use Fender. He utilized his knowledge of the business to create and write unique ad campaigns for Rolling Stone Magazine. The ad writers were not thrilled to relinquish their role to Handa, but he convinced them that as a musician it was only logical for him to write the ads.

During his years with CBS Musical Instruments, Handa traveled the world. He always took a camera with him, and his love of photography grew during his travels.

After CBS, Studiomaster (a company that sold large recording studio consoles) hired Handa to start their US office. He gave the job his all, but a mini-stroke made him decide to return to a less stressful lifestyle. Consequently, he moved back to Portland and opened the music shop again.

A fishing trip to Key West, Florida, prompted Handa and his wife to sell their house and the business and move to a better climate. In Key West, he began concentrating on photography. Handa photographs a bit of everything — he has a pronounced skill for catching great shots of birds in their natural habitat.

Handa is mostly a self-taught photographer. He said that he read many books on photography and studied the work of other photographers. Handa didn't take formal classes; but when he figured out that mastering exposure separates point-and-shoot pictures from photography that can be classified as art, he set out to find someone to help refine his skills. He went to Mike Arato, a well-known photographer from Miami, and told him he'd like to learn about exposure.

From his photography, you can see that Handa learned his lessons well. His photographs are spectacular. His shots of Egrets standing over a nest of babies are breathtaking. Handa notes that you can't just walk up to the nest and take the picture. You have to have the right equipment, namely a high-powered lens and an excellent tripod in order to capture pictures from a considerable distance and have it appear that you were standing right next to the nest. Handa explained that one reason you don't want to get too close to the nest is that the birds obviously don't like it, but another important reason is that alligators often circle below the nests waiting for the baby birds to fall out. So, there's more to photography than just finding a great subject and snapping a few shots.

While living in the Keys, Handa supplemented his income with real estate. He wanted to do more than just sell houses. He wanted to give people the information they needed to make an informed decision before they pulled up stakes and moved to an unknown area. To that end, he developed a Florida information website to disseminate information about specific locations and what people could expect if they moved there. Three years ago, Handa moved to Melbourne. He continues to manage the Florida Real Estate Network (www.flarren.com) by keeping it packed with useful information.

In addition, Handa continues photography full time, specializing in landscapes and birds. He works with a digital camera and likes to control the process from start to finish. He uses software to duplicate darkroom techniques on the computer and prints his pictures on the best archival papers. At times, he uses canvas for printing, which results in a picture looking more like a painting than a photograph.

Handa's photography skills have not gone unnoticed. He was the featured photographer for South West Graphics magazine – Phoenix Arizona; contributing field photographer for Nature Photographer; and is a member of the North American Nature Photography Association (NANPA). His work has been on display in several galleries and design studios in Florida. Most recently, it was on display at the Melbourne Airport. On July 10th, eleven pieces will go on exhibit at the Brevard Community College Planetarium. They will remain there through November 10th.

Handa believes photographers must be patient with their art. "You can go out for several hours of shooting and only come home with one or two shots," Handa says. "That's a successful day. The great thing about photography is that you learn to really look at things and it gets you out doors."

Handa manages a website about his photography (<http://www.dhphotoart.com>) where you can see more examples of his work.

Inventor And Entrepreneur

VICTOR N. VIC-VINCENT

A lot of people dream about turning their ideas into reality, making their own creations come to life and bringing them to store shelves. The task isn't an easy one, but some people break into the field.

Melbourne native Victor N. Vic-Vincent's entrepreneurial career began at the early age of 15 with his own surfboard company. He made and sold the boards in Indian Harbor Beach under Sunshine Surfboards. His first patented product came years later, after he was laid off and in poor financial shape.

Bankruptcy, the board game, came from a dream Vic-Vincent had about creating a board game that changed his life. "I woke up in the middle of the night and drew it all up on paper," Vic-Vincent said. Within 90 days he had 1,000 copies of games packaged and ready to sell.

After its release the board game became controversial because of its concept. When a player goes bankrupt he puts a cap in the cap-gun, spins the cylinder and pulls the trigger. If the cap pops — well, you get the idea. "Everything I create has to have a gimmick," Vic-Vincent said. "If it doesn't, it won't sell."

After he created the board game Vic-Vincent knew that inventing things was what he wanted to do for the rest of his life. "I love the attention and I love to create things that make people laugh," Vic-Vincent said.

Since then he has created the Sticky Ticky, a children's toy; The Slim Patch, a weight loss patch; and several other inventions. Vic-Vincent's Thirst-Aid Kit, a first aid box with miniature liquor bottles inside, will be coming on the market May 1st, 2006.

But Vic-Vincent didn't stop with creating new products. He also managed singer Bobby Purify, who sang "Shake A Tail Feather," a song that was used in The Blues Brothers movie. Vic-Vincent also has his own clothes line, owns several websites and has written 2 books.

His latest book, "Patent, Protect, Produce and Profit From Your Ideas and Inventions YOURSELF!" has recently become available at Barnes and Noble stores and Borders.com. The book has also gotten attention from Rich Davis and Steve Covino of Maxim Radio who said that Vic-Vincent's book has helped motivate them to pursue some of their own ideas. Even Vic-Vincent's name is an invention he created because everyone kept calling him Vincent instead of Victor. The switch came out in his favor earning him more notoriety in the music business.

He began writing the books after being approached by several friends and colleagues about the patenting process. The first piece of advice he gave some people was to ignore the 1-800 numbers advertised.

"It's a scam," Vic-Vincent said, "they just take your money."

Now Vic-Vincent is working on promoting his second book and a country song he's written called Buck! Buck! Buck!.

"The downfall in everything I've done is that when I create something my mind just goes off into something else and I'll stop what I'm doing and create that," Vic-Vincent said. "To be honest, I don't think it's the money, I think it's just the notoriety."

At 52, Vic-Vincent has accomplished a lot, but he's definitely not finished yet. "I don't want to be 85 years old sitting in my rocking chair thinking 'I wish I would have done that,'" Vic-Vincent said, "I do it."
